We know camps.

As our name reflects, Australian Camp Services is experienced in the rapid deployment and operation of permanent villages, construction camps and mobile rig-style camps.

This experience gives us the knowledge and resources required to assist our clients in selecting the right camp type for their project needs.

We work closely with our clients to inform them about the best modular products on the market, and to help them select the modular accommodation, core facilities and associated infrastructure that will work best for their project. This early work saves time and ensures our clients are provided with the best value for money solutions possible.

Working with clients across Australia, we can assist in the design, modular sourcing, development, commissioning, operation and shut down of camps of all sizes.
